

Son of Heaven — Visitor Terms & Policies

Temple of Heaven, Beijing · Effective date: January 2026 · sonofheaven.com

1. Visitor Essentials

The Temple of Heaven park is open daily. The park gates open early in the morning, while the historic halls — the Hall of Prayer for Good Harvests, the Imperial Vault of Heaven and the Circular Mound Altar — keep shorter hours and are closed on Mondays (except public holidays). Last admission is thirty minutes before the halls close. We recommend allowing at least two to three hours for a full visit along the central axis.

2. Tickets

Entry to the park and entry to the historic halls are ticketed separately:

Park admission covers the gardens, ancient cypress groves and outer grounds;

A through-ticket additionally covers the Hall of Prayer for Good Harvests, the Imperial Vault of Heaven and the Circular Mound Altar, and is recommended for first-time visitors;

Concessions are available for students, seniors and children in accordance with the regulations of Tiantan Park; valid identification is required;

Tickets are dated and non-transferable. Prices and opening arrangements may be adjusted by the park administration in peak season or for conservation works; the notices at the gates prevail.

3. Code of Conduct

The Temple of Heaven is a UNESCO World Heritage monument and a place of living tradition. Visitors are asked to:

refrain from touching, climbing or leaning on the historic structures, altars and ancient trees;

keep noise down near the ceremonial halls and respect visitors practising tai chi, calligraphy and music in the gardens;

smoke only in designated areas, and never near the timber halls;

take photographs for personal use; tripods, drones and commercial shoots require prior permission from the park administration;

follow the instructions of park staff and posted signs at all times.
